ABOUT THE GAME

The fast paced game of polo is played on a ten acre grass field, 300 yards in length by 160 yards. The goal of the game is to hit the ball in between the two posts that are at the end of the field.

Each team consists of four players. The players will pass the ball down the field. The opposing team will attempt to gain control of the ball by trying to bump the other player off the "line of the ball" or by hooking the other players mallet as they go to hit the ball. Spectators enjoy seeing horses race up and down the field while the players skillfully hit the ball to their corresponding goal.

There are four to six chukkers in a polo match. Each chukker is seven and a half minutes. In-between each chukker there will be a short break to allow the players to switch their horses. At the end of the last chukker the team with the most goals is the winner.
